"Numbers from the CDC indicate that some of the populations we serve have been disproportionately affected by COVID-19," said Founder and CEO of THCC, Dolores Lindsay. "We believe that everyone deserves quality health care, regardless of where you live, how much you earn, and whether you have medical coverage. By making COVID-19 testing more widely available, we can quickly address any positive cases and slow down the spread everywhere, especially in our higher-risk groups."

"This is a situation where we feel we could help make a difference for residents of the Lincoln Heights and Mt. Healthy communities," said President of TriHealth Physician Partners and Chief Medical Officer of TriHealth Ambulatory Services, Bryan Strader. "More testing means more people can get the care they need if any of those tests come back positive."

Lab fees will be paid for by the THCC for those who do not have medical insurance, health care officials.

Officials say patients will get their test results back a couple of days after taking the test via telephone or email.
